

WARREN VAN RENSBURG

Shooting across the disciplines, Warren Van Rensburg's photographs are informed by a strong design element. Uncluttered composition, with a focus on the subject is a distinct characteristic of his work. Warren is also known for his ability to capture nuanced moments, whether in portrait or documentary work. He has been shooting professionally since 2002, and has work featured in both local and international titles, including Collezione Sport and Street Magazine, London's Masterclass and The National, as well as the South African Photography Journal and One Small Seed. He has shot for Nike South Africa, and has also participated in several photographic exhibitions, with a solo show planned for later in the year.
