

SNALO NGCABA

Self-taught illustrator and graphic designer Snalo Ngcaba is making a name for herself in Johannesburg with her socially conscious illustrations that celebrate black joy and tackle human rights issues like gender-based violence. Her distinct graphic style features bold lines, patterns and bright colours. Using popular culture motifs and text slogans, Snalo says, "I'm very intentional in my illustrations, especially with my protest art." She is inspired by seeing other black artists flourish and having a positive impact in the world. Snalo broke into the industry by promoting her work on social media.

She recently worked on a COVID-19 safety mural for the Gauteng Department of Sport, Arts and Culture and is collaborating with Creative Nestlings on an anti-gender-based violence t-shirt and sticker campaign. In 2017 Snalo participated in a mural project for FEM, an organisation promoting safe abortions in low income communities.

Brand clients include:

Aperol Spritz
Comedy Central
Constitution Hill
AfroNation
Afropunk
Between 10and5
Design Indaba
Creative Nestlings

Lampost, Parkwood, Johannesburg, South Africa.

Tel: +27 11 788 2609 | info@lampost.co.za

All Content Copyright | Lampost © 2021

"Please, I can't breathe" - George Floyd

EBONY

THE BLACK REVOLUTION

MAY 2020

SPECIAL ISSUE

